Prospects

Many graduates from the Biochemistry Master's program at FUB continue to obtain their PhD. Thereafter, graduates can work in very different occupations. Many remain in research while others go on to work in pharmaceutical or biotech companies.

On the following pages, you can read short interviews with FUB Biochemistry graduates working in various occupational fields. They describe how they decided to pursue their profession, provide insights into their professional life and explain what skills and competences they need on a regular basis at work.

Admission and Application Process

Admission restrictions

- Most study programs have an admission restriction (Numerus Clausus)
- The Latin term Numerus Clausus stands for “restricted number” and means that the number of applicants admitted must not be (much) higher than the number of available places (as calculated by the respective university).
- To see whether a study program has restricted admission, look out for the phrase “lokale Zulassungsbeschränkung”/“Restricted admission” in the program description at the link below

Application and Admission Process

Applying in 7 Steps

Step 1: Review Admission Requirements

Required for the application:

- a higher education entrance qualification (HZB)
- Sufficient German skills (except for Bachelor's and Master's programs in English)
- Additional language skills, depending on the study program

Higher Education Entrance Qualification (HZB) (relevant for undergraduate programs)

- Whether you have a higher education entrance qualification that is accepted as equal to the German HZB depends on your educational background.
- Conditions usually include the following:
 - a high school diploma or school-leaving qualification from your native country that grants you access to higher education in your native country or, as the case may be,
 - a combination of school-leaving qualification, university entrance exam and/or years already enrolled as a student at a university.

CHECK

Check: university admission

If you wish to study in Germany, you need a University entrance qualification, called “Hochschulzugangsberechtigung” or “HZB” for short. This database was developed in cooperation with the German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD). Its contents are based on the guidelines provided by the Central Office for Foreign Education (ZAB).

Find out quickly and simply if you are qualified to study in Germany using your Educational certificates.

Studienkolleg

- If you have an indirect university entrance qualification, you have to do an assessment exam (“Feststellungsprüfung”).
- This assessment exam is the final part of a one-year preparatory course at Studienkolleg. You can apply for FU Berlin’s Studienkolleg directly, but you will need a pre-check (“VPD”) by uni-assist in order to apply.
- For application, German skills at level B2.2 CEFR is required.
- After application you will then be invited to take an entry test for being selected to the Studienkolleg.
- The preparatory course at Studienkolleg has all-day classes taking place on five weekdays in various subjects and in German.
- Information on the entry test: <https://www.fu-berlin.de/sites/studienkolleg/studierfaehigkeitstest/index.html>

German Skills

For the application, you need one of these certificates

- C1 CEFR certificate with grades
- TestDaF with at least level 4 in two parts and level 3 in two parts (f.e. 4/4/3/3)
- language evaluation test, which attests skills at level C1 CEFR
- DSH 1

For enrollment (shortly before semester start), you need one of these certificates

- DSH 2 (test offered by FU Berlin)
- Telc C 1-Hochschule (at least „good“/“gut“)
- C 2-Zertifikat des Goethe-Instituts
- Deutsches Sprachdiplom der Kultusministerkonferenz - Zweite Stufe (DSD II)
- Feststellungsprüfung des Studienkollegs (Assessment Exam of the Studienkolleg)
- TestDaF with at least level 4 in all four parts

Additional Language Skills

Some degree programs require English (or other language) proficiency for enrollment.

What additional language skills do I need to prove?

- You can check on www.fu-berlin.de/en/studium/studienangebot/grundstaendige/ whether the degree program of your choice requires additional skills in another language.

How can I provide proof of language skills?

- On the university's Application website you can learn more about how to prove those language skills.

VPD – preliminary re-view documentation

Some of our universities use special application procedures. Find out here what a VPD ("Vorprüfungsdocumentation") is and what you need to consider.

- ↘ What is a preliminary review documentation (VPD)?
- ↘ Do I need to follow the VPD procedure?
- ↘ How do I get a VPD?
- ↘ How long does processing take?
- ↘ What do I need to do after receiving my VPD?

What is a preliminary review documentation (VPD)?

We create the VPD for some universities. It contains the following information:

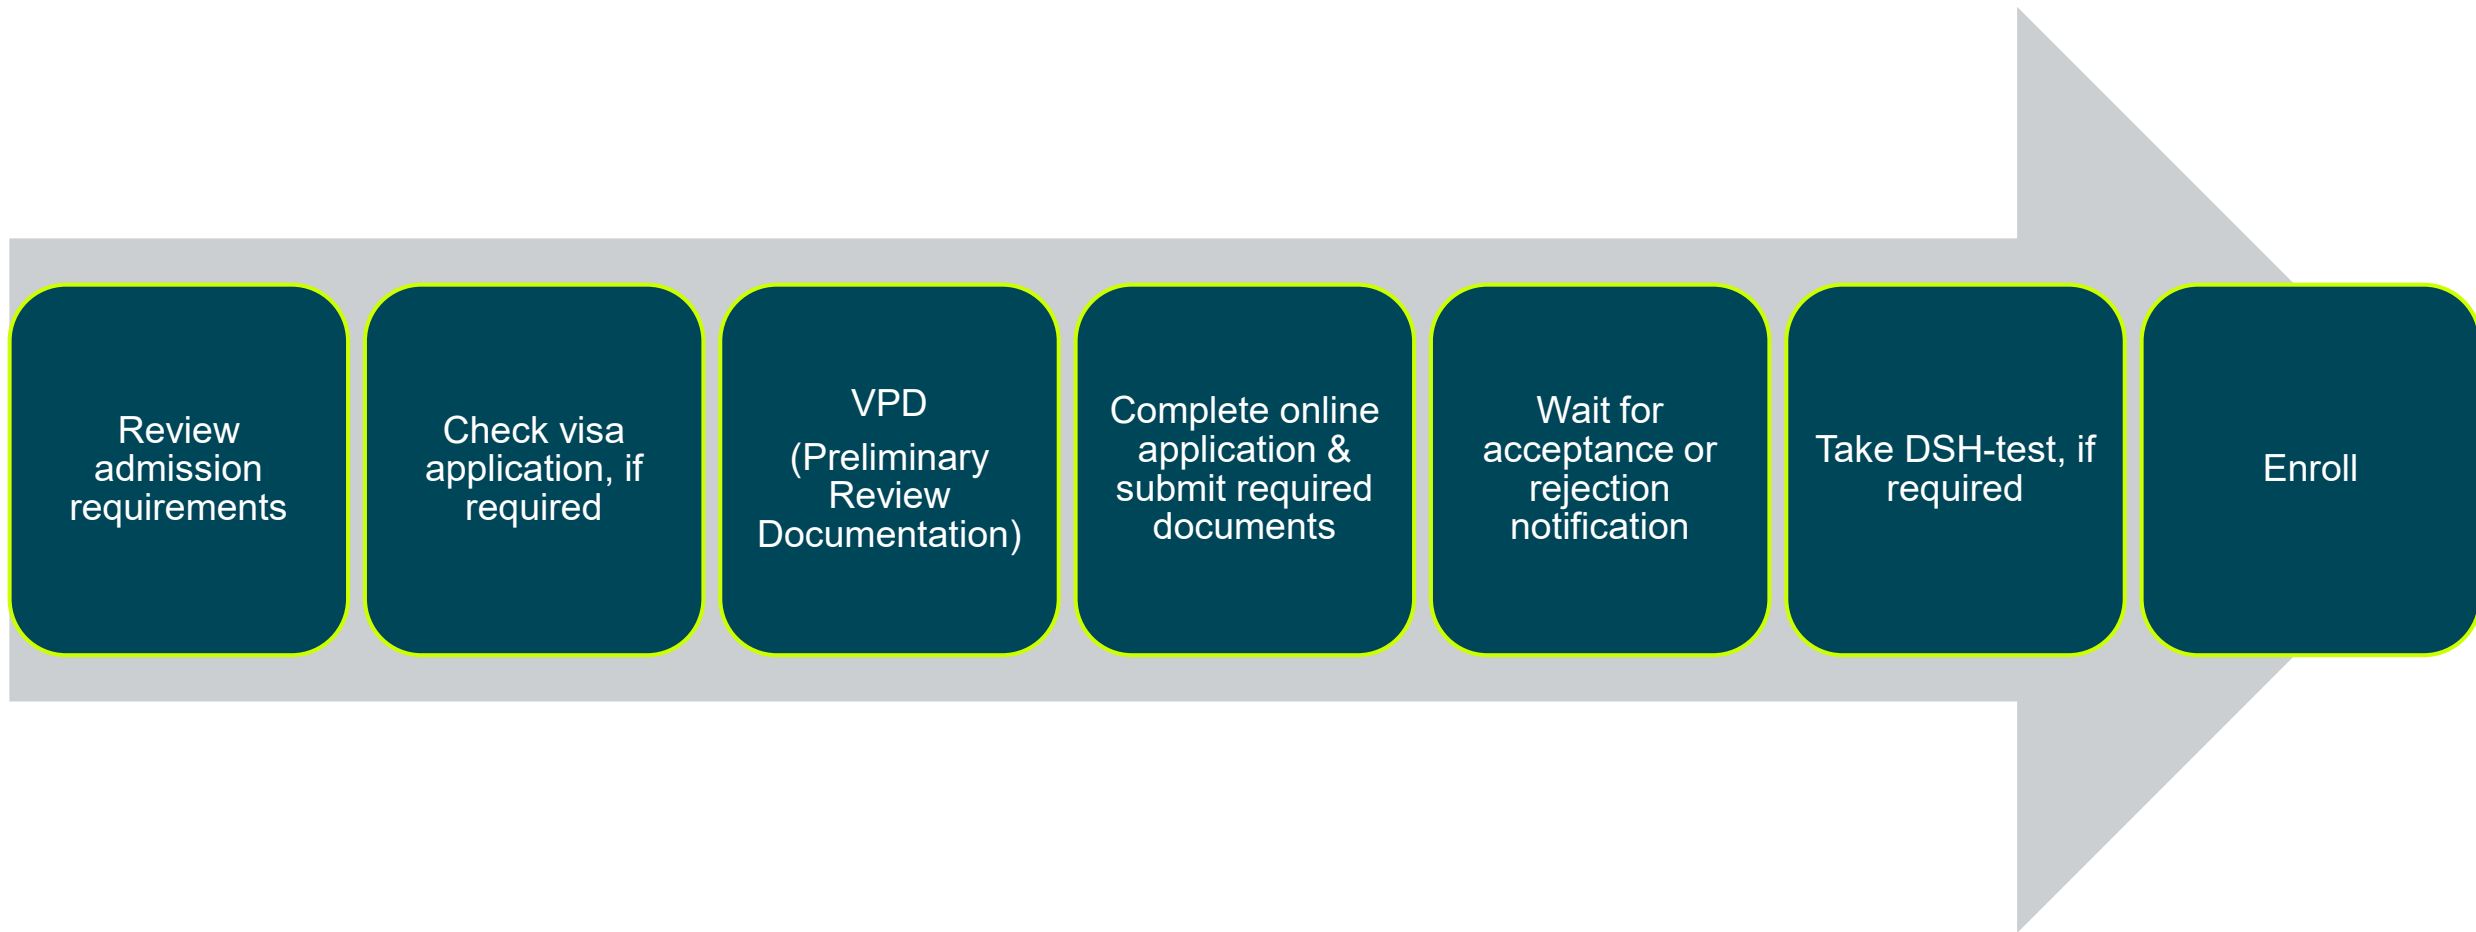

- which educational certificates were presented
- how uni-assist evaluates these educational certificates
- how uni-assist rates the grade within the German system of grades

Before application – VPD

- VPD: Having the documents of your HZB checked by uni-assist
- You can apply for a VPD at any time, regardless of our application deadlines. It is valid for one year after issuance.
- Valid for only one university and only for one year
- Necessary, if your bachelor's degree is not from a German university

Important Note: Apply for the VPD as early as possible because it might take up to 8 weeks until you receive your VPD, which you need for applying at FU Berlin.

Applying in 7 Steps

Undergraduate degree programs: Documents needed for the VPD/application

VPD:

- Upload school leaving and university certificates (in original language)
- Upload official translations of all certificates if issued in any language other than English or German

Additional information:

- Applicants with certificates from China, India or Vietnam have to submit the original certification from an Academic Evaluation Centre (Akademische Prüfstelle APS) in addition to the required documents.
- Please check <https://www.uni-assist.de/tools/laenderhinweise/> to find out if you need additional documents for the VPD
- Missing documents due to flight: Please be sure to mention this on your form at uni-assist because application is still possible in that case

Graduate degree programs: Documents needed for the VPD/application

For the VPD:

- graduation certificate (if you have completed your studies) and school leaving certificates (if you have not completed your studies)
- official current transcript of records (with an overall grade)
- Upload official translations of all certificates if issued in any language other than English or German

For the online application at FUB:

- VPD + all school leaving and university certificates and official translations
- If required, upload proof of sufficient knowledge of German
- If required, upload proof of sufficient proof of English language knowledge
- If required, proof of another language

Graduate degree programs: Documents needed for the VPD/application
